Introduction

School counselors are professionals who work with children and adolescents, school faculty, and families in the schools. Drawing on several specific skills, school counselors are asked to address an increasingly complex array of social and psychological problems.

To competently serve youth in schools, school counselors must develop an awareness of the ecosystems affecting children as well as the unique developmental factors that contribute to children's development and to their social and academic successes. For school counselors to be effective, they must practice culturally relevant and culturally competent interventions. This requires a solid understanding of the dynamic ways in which ethnicity, race, class, gender, religion and sexual orientation affect child development and children's interactions with others. School counselors must also be familiar with other systems of human ecology, especially the school system, the workforce, and the nature of family dynamics. Within interacting systems of the human ecology are individuals who experience the world through their social, cognitive, and affective development. School counselors are trained to be aware of normative patterns of emotional and intellectual development and of socialization during childhood and adolescence. With an understanding of developmental models, school counselors can better understand a student's struggles to effectively navigate social relationships, academic demands, and emotional issues that they encounter with their peers, in their families, in the classroom, and as they prepare for the workforce.

TAMU School Counseling Mission

The mission of the TAMU School Counseling Track is to prepare exemplary professional school counselors and leaders. The curriculum uses a scholar-practitioner approach that integrates the use of current technology, on-site practicum experiences, and intellectual and creative resources to work with an increasingly diverse and global society. The school counseling curriculum educates well-rounded counselors who demonstrate competence included in the high standards as set forth by the Texas Education Agency and the American School Counselor Association.

STUDENT CONTRACT

We are delighted that you have chosen to pursue graduate study in school counseling at TAMU! Consistent with the goals of TAMU and the College of Education and Human Development, school counseling students are expected to develop values and ethics to guide personal and professional decisions and behavior. These dispositions are founded on the concepts of caring, fairness, flexibility, honesty, responsibility, and social justice. Accordingly, students are expected to respect individual differences, work cooperatively, explore alternative theories and viewpoints, appreciate the unique abilities of self and others, respect various forms of self expression, and accept responsibility for one's choices. Students are furthermore expected to exhibit personal management behaviors valued by the professional education community; believe that all students can learn; know and respect the influence of race, ethnicity, gender, religion, sexual orientation, and other aspects of culture on a child's development and personality; and respect the accepted ethical norms, legal requirements, and values of education.

As a student in school counseling, you are expected to maintain a high level of academic achievement. Towards this end, students may not graduate with a grade less than B on their course of study.

The school counseling program requires two semesters of practicum at a K-12 school (public or private). Students are responsible for arranging the practicum with a school near their location. Students who cannot make arrangements for practicum completion will not be permitted to graduate from the program.

Completion of the master's, however, is dependent not only upon academic performance but also on the demonstration of appropriate interpersonal skills, professional demeanor, and social and ethical judgment. If concerns arise, the faculty will meet to evaluate the severity and nature of the concern and to suggest an appropriate course of action. Some suggestions might include: desist temporarily from course work, repeat courses, seek personal counseling, perform voluntary or paid work in a school, or withdraw from the program permanently. The faculty reserves the right to make recommendations based on their professional judgment concerning student needs and concerns.

We attempt to accommodate working students who have busy lives. However, a demanding and time consuming two (or more) years will be required of each of you. Please carefully weigh this commitment with other personal and professional demands. Attendance in each class is paramount and high quality work is expected.

*****

I have carefully read the above statement and the contents in this handbook. I agree to the terms as outlined.

CPSY 639 Counseling Practicum in the Schools

The school counseling practicum experience is conducted in the schools. It is intended to provide students with the opportunity to develop basic counseling skills, as well as to integrate theoretical understanding into practical counseling application. Supervision and feedback will occur through the on-site supervisor (i.e., certified school counselor), the faculty supervisor, peer review, and by counseling psychology doctoral student supervision. Students are required to set up their practicum with a school near their location.

In order to be eligible to take the school counseling practicum, students must:

Students are required to complete a minimum of 150 hours in the field practicum with 50 direct contact hours. The student must submit a completed Supervisor Evaluation and Summary of Practicum Hours forms to the instructor on course completion.

Professional Liability Insurance

Students are strongly encouraged to purchase professional liability insurance during their practicum experience. The American Counseling Association Insurance Trust offers student rates:

<http://www.acait.com/students/index.cfm>

Role of the Temporary Faculty Advisor

Upon admission to the school counseling program, each student is assigned a temporary advisor by the program faculty. The role of the advisor is to assist students in interpreting university, departmental, and program regulations and requirements. Please consult with your temporary advisor prior to registering for the first semester of classes and each semester throughout the program. Students will select a permanent chair/advisor and submit the Official University degree plan by the fall of their second year in the program.

Role of Student's Chair and Committee

A school counseling faculty member must be the chair of your committee. The chair of the student's committee together with the student will select the remainder of the Advisory Committee. The student's Advisory Committee will consist of a total of three members of the graduate faculty. Of the other two members, one member must be from a department other than educational psychology.

School Counselor Final Exam

The TExES #152 is considered to be the Final Examination for the M.Ed. exam. Students must take and pass the exam before the semester of graduation. A copy of the exam score must be received by the faculty chair BEFORE the Office of Graduate Studies (OGS) final exam deadline. For example, if a student anticipates a graduation in December, the deadline to take the final exam is in October of that year. A copy of your score must be submitted to your Advisory Committee Chair before the October deadline. Once the score is received, the student's faculty chair gives permission to file for a final examination. The student will then file a "Request and Announcement of the Final Examination" form with OGS. Successful completion of the TExES will constitute a pass of the TAMU Final Examination.

Academic Probation

Students are placed on probation by the program if they receive a C, D, F, or U in any course on the degree plan. Students are required to inform their advisor if they receive such a grade. If a student receives less than a B in a class on the degree plan, it will have to be retaken. Students may not leave for any practicum experiences while on academic probation. If probation is not rectified by the specified time period, the student will be terminated from the program.

The Department Academic Advisor

The Academic Advisor and the student services office is located in Room 704 EDCT, just inside the main office of the Department of Educational Psychology. This office is staffed by the Academic Advisor and student assistants who handle the application process for the department.

Student Grievance Process

In addition to the grievance procedures established by the University, the Department of Educational Psychology has developed the following process. It is known as the Student Advocate Office and is described as follows:

There is a Student Advocate Office within the EPSY department . An EPSY faculty member selected by the Department Head assumes the Student Advocate position. The current Student Advocate is Dr.Cindy Riccio. Graduate and Undergraduate Grievance Advisory Committees have been established. Each committee is made up of one faculty member and two students. The purpose of these committees is threefold.

- 1) To advise the Student Advocate concerning policy and issues related to faculty/student relations in EPSY,
- 2) To forward possible student concerns to the Student Advocate, and
- 3) To aid in the resolution of student concerns when requested by the Student Advocate.

The following policies were derived by the Student Advocate in consultation with EPSY faculty, students and the department head.

Pre-condition to Student's Initiation of the Grievance Process:

Students are encouraged to meet with and attempt to resolve problems with the faculty member. If a student has met with the faculty member and the problem has not been resolved, he or she should contact the Student Advocate or a member of the Grievance Advisory Committee.

OR:

If students do not choose to meet with the faculty member due to the nature of the problem or the impaired relationship with the faculty member, they also may directly contact the Student Advocate or a member of the Grievance Advisory Committee and initiate the grievance process.

Overview of Grievance Process

A student who has a faculty-student concern and who has addressed the preconditions for initiation of the grievance process is encouraged to meet with the Student Advocate. However, a student may choose to meet first with other EPSY faculty member(s).

Depending upon the nature of the student's concern, the Student Advocate may consult with the identified faculty member, the program coordinator or the department head. At the discretion of the department head, the student's concern may be communicated to the College Of Education and Human Development (CEHD) Dean's office. When there is a discussion of a particular faculty-student concern, maintaining anonymity of the student may not be possible. However, confidentiality of information, as outlined in American Psychology Association ethical principles, will be maintained.

Resolution of Student Concerns

Resolution of a student's concern may occur as a result of:

- 1) Student's dialogue with the faculty member, a Grievance Advisory Committee member or the Student Advocate.
- 2) Student Advocate's consultation with the Grievance Advisory Committee and/or discussions with the faculty member.
- 3) Student Advocate's discussion of the student's concern with the program coordinator or the department head. As a result of these discussions, the Student Advocate and/or the department head may confer with the faculty member.
- 4) Pending the outcome of the above mentioned 3), or the nature of the student's concern, the department head and/or student may enter into discussion with the COE Dean's office and appropriate University committees and administrators.

RESOLUTION ON DIVERSITY

Whereas Texas A&M University, as a major public institution of higher education, has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a climate that affirms diversity of views – diversity being an indispensable component of academic excellence, and

Whereas the academic identity of Counseling Psychology is rooted in the research-based Scientist/Practitioner model, and

Whereas the American Psychological Association (APA) deplores all public and private prejudice and discrimination based on race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, gender, or physical condition, and

Whereas the APA supports and urges the enactment of civil rights legislation at the local, state, and federal level that offers citizens of the above diverse groups the same protections that are guaranteed to others, and

Whereas many youth and adults of diverse groups are at risk for psychological damage because of facing harassment and physical violence in school and social environments;

Therefore be it resolved that the APA-accredited Counseling Psychology program's mission is to embrace, welcome, and support group and individual diversity insofar as such diversity does not imply violence and discrimination; and

Be it further resolved that this program deplores prejudice and discrimination; and

Be it further resolved that the Counseling Psychology, in accordance with the APA Code of Ethics, will support and encourage its faculty members and students to respect the rights of others to hold values, attitudes, and opinions that differ from their own, and to work to eliminate the effect of biases and prejudice that may create a hostile environment.
